

The Bee Song

Kate Barrett

Chorus

Collecting nectar, working hard,
Bees do their dance in your back yard.
Always busy and in great haste,
To turn summer colours into that sweet honey taste.

Verse 1

Walking in my garden I suddenly hear a hum,
I look all about me and I wonder where it comes from.
The flowers are all blooming so colourful and bright,
There's a bee in the garden, oh what a wonderful sight.

Chorus

Collecting nectar, working hard,
Bees do their dance in your back yard.
Always busy and in great haste,
To turn summer colours into that sweet honey taste.

Verse 2

Watch them as they slowly crawl up inside the flower,
Seeking out the nectar which gives them all their power.
Each visit they make will contribute towards the pollination,
Of many foods we eat today: they truly feed the nation.

Chorus

Collecting nectar, working hard,
Bees do their dance in your back yard.
Always busy and in great haste,
To turn summer colours into that sweet honey taste.

Bridge

Scientific studies show bees are disappearing,
New pesticides and chemicals are really interfering.
We must work together to rescue them somehow,
Each person can do something that will make a difference now.

Verse 3

Helping bees is easy, just put aside a plot,
Of garden or allotment, it needn't be a lot.
Plant some honeysuckle, and lavender and herbs,
Then bees will come and find the blooms, the results will be superb.

Chorus

Collecting nectar, working hard,
Bees do their dance in your back yard.
Always busy and in great haste,
To turn summer colours into that sweet honey taste.
